Our summer season in Maine has been an incredible one! As the fall season approaches - which is always beautiful - we're reflecting on what a unique season we've had. One that we will all remember for a long time to come.

We want to thank our members and our staff for diligently following COVID-19 safety best practices. By doing so, we've been able to safely provide all of the wonderful amenities that we offer. We've all made the best of the current circumstances and have enjoyed another a great season together.

In this issue you'll find the results of golf tournaments, lots of photos of our members from the various tournaments as well as from our recent social member events. Enjoy!

Message from Paul & Giselaine

Dear Members,

We would like to take this opportunity to thank you all for approaching this unique season with kindness, compassion and understanding.

We truly appreciate your willingness to not only follow but embrace the safety protocols that we put in place to protect us all from COVID-19.

The 2020 season brought with it unexpected challenges that we overcame together. Together, we wore our face masks without hesitation and took all of the necessary precautions to keep each other safe so that we could continue to enjoy all that our special club has to offer.

We hope that we've exceeded your expectations in providing a vast array of amenities and services, outstanding cuisine, dynamic programming and engaging members events while always providing the exceptional service that you have come to expect. We hope that we've been able to provide you with an escape from it all.

The 2020 season is one that we will always remember - one that we enjoyed together safely and compassionately.

All our best,

Paul & Giselaine

Coulombe family helps raise over half million toward advanced treatment of autism and developmental disorders

Southport residents Paul and Giselaïne Coulombe host local leaders to learn about the Center of Excellence in Autism and Developmental Disorders to open in Maine next summer

By Michelle Amero, Boothbay Harbor Country Club - Thu, 08/20/2020 - 4:00pm

The Centers for Disease Control estimates that 1 in 54 children have autism and approximately one in six children in the United States had a developmental disability, ranging from mild disabilities such as speech and language impairments to serious developmental disabilities, such as intellectual disability, cerebral palsy, and autism.

These estimates, along with the scarcity of treatment centers for these individuals and their families is why Paul and Giselaïne Coulombe are so passionate about a new project aimed to meet this growing need. Their passion around the project brought together a group of community leaders and interested family member to the Boothbay Harbor Country Club to hear about the exciting project. Event speakers included Paul Coulombe, MaineHealth President Rich Petersen and Cathy Honeycomb, mother of young adult twins with autism. By the end of the evening more than $585,000 was raised toward the innovative project.

Last spring Maine Behavioral Healthcare broke ground on a 28,000 square foot treatment, training and research facility located on the grounds of Spring Harbor Hospital. The project is a $14.7 million, state-of-the-art facility created to meet the growing needs of Maine families and individuals with a diagnosis of autism and other developmental disorders. MaineHealth, Maine Behavioral Healthcare's parent organization, is providing half of the funds to the project, and a capital campaign has raised over $5.4 million prior to the event from the community toward the other half, leaving just under $2 million to be raised over the coming year.

The Coulombes understand what bringing a center like this will mean to the people of Maine, including those in the Midcoast region, for families desperate for help.

"This is a solution for people who haven't had the resources available to care for an autistic child and who then worry about the future when their children become adults," Coulombe stated. "I'm so thrilled that they (Maine Behavioral Healthcare) have taken this big step forward in deciding to to construct a Center of Excellence in Autism and Developmental Disorders right here in Maine."

The project is led by Maine Behavioral Healthcare's Vice President of Medical Affairs for Autism and Developmental Disorders Dr. Matthew Siegel, who is a nationally recognized expert in building programs to treat the emotional and behavioral challenges of this population.

"Our vision is to provide Maine people with access to a lifespan-oriented, full-service integrated treatment, research, and training center that will not only meet the needs of Maine families, but it will also generate new treatment models, and advance autism science for the benefit of all," said Siegel.

Those interested in supporting the capital campaign to build the Center of Excellence in Autism and Developmental Disorders can contact Michelle Zichella, VP Development at Maine Behavioral Healthcare, 207-661-6100 or zichem@mainebehavioralhealthcare.org.
